

When Jesus saw the vast crowd,
his heart was moved with pity for them,

*for they were like sheep
without a shepherd.*

Fr. Bob's Weekly Blog

Welcome to Two Holy Martyrs Parish!!

St. Symphorosa & St. Rene Goupil

Jesus is never too busy to listen to us.

He is the Good Shepherd who cares for His flock. When we begin to believe that Christ is too busy or too disinterested to spend time with us, then we've bought into a terrible spiritual lie. The Lord loves to hear from his children; both the good and the bad. We might be tempted to show only our good side when we pray, but Jesus wants you to express the struggles, too.

"How are you doing?" is a common question we get asked by others. Maybe they want to hear a sincere answer, or maybe they don't, but think about what we usually say when asked that question. "Oh, I'm doing well. Everything is fine." We put on a happy face.

In our time spent with Jesus (prayer) we are encouraged to go beyond rote recitation of learned prayers. Verbal prayer has a time and a place, but as we mature in our discipleship, we want to move toward prayer as conversation with a trusted friend.

Imagine Jesus sitting down with you. He looks you in the eyes and asks, "How are you doing?" What will you say to Him in return?

How easy it can be to just avoid the conversation or to suddenly decide we're too busy for this and need to go put dishes in the dishwasher or reply to those ten inbox emails. We rattle off an Our Father, Hail Mary, and Glory Be and return to busy-ness.

One of the common reasons cited for a marriage in trouble is a breakdown in communication. The spouses don't talk. They might discuss the business of the day and speak actual words to each other, but they no longer speak intimately – heart to heart. "Honey, what's wrong?" And she replies, "Nothing!"

In the spiritual life, we can't just go through the motions. We can't just "Say our prayers," and then go on with the day. Prayer -- life-giving prayer-- is time spent in quiet and stillness with a God who loves us dearly. God might not like some things we've done or said, but he loves YOU, and desires our reception of His love and our sharing of His love.

Maybe the Lord is inviting you this summer to go beyond "saying prayers," toward "Time with Jesus." Be intentional about reserving a minimum of thirty minutes a day to step out of the ordinary schedule of the day to spend extraordinary time with the Lord.

The voice of discouragement and distraction will try to keep you from this spiritually important time, but recognize the voice for what it is, and stay committed to this time. Gradually work your way toward to an hour a day. This is not wasted time. It's sacred time, and your soul benefits from quiet and stillness. Don't always expect fireworks or to get a "spiritual buzz." That expectation comes from a consumer mindset where we always want to GET something out of it.

Imagine the only reason a friend wanted to spend time with you was to GET something from you. Authentic friendship is a mutual sharing of our hearts. We simply enjoy each other's company. And so it is with our Lord – our heart and His Sacred Heart. Time well spent so that we have the strength and courage to be witnesses to the faith amidst daily life.

Remember, however. Jesus is always ready to listen. Don't forget to listen to Him.

Thank You, Staff

Allow me the opportunity to publicly thank the staff here at Two Holy Martyrs Parish: St. Symphorosa & St. Rene Goupil.

We have a wonderful, caring, and committed staff who works throughout the week in various ways to help serve our faith community. As often as I might say thank you to them personally, it's also important that you know they exist and that they are appreciated.

Driving around the streets of the southwest side, you might notice the abundance of "Now Hiring" signs on storefronts. Owners and managers are having a hard time finding people to work. This only increases my gratitude for the men and women who have chosen to work for our parish.

Being employed by the Church is not going to make anyone rich, but our employees serve from a place that isn't all about money. They know that I consider them to be workers in the vineyard. The past year was a challenge as we blended folks from the formerly separate parishes into one Two Holy Martyrs parish staff. We've been looking at how best can serve our people and this community.

One of the ways a pastor can evaluate the staff is by measuring his comfort level when going away on vacation. I recently was able to get away for a week and realized I left town with full confidence in our staff. Consider us blessed for their time and talent. Thank you, staff!

Quote of the Week

"Prayer is a place of refuge for every worry, a foundation for cheerfulness, a source of constant happiness, a protection against sadness."

Dear Sisters and Brothers,

In Chicago, in the metro area, and even more widely across our nation, we face a profoundly painful moment in our life together. So many families are grieving the loss of loved ones to violence, and those loved ones include babies and small children. The grief is compounded by the senselessness of the loss. Fear accompanies many of us as we go about our daily lives. We are afraid of becoming a victim of gun violence, or a carjacking, or an assault. And we are afraid not only for ourselves but also for the people we care for.

As we recover from the pandemic and embrace a more familiar way of life, the comfort of normalcy we had hoped for is being spoiled by a menacing violence that threatens all of us.

Understandably, we want this horrifying situation resolved without delay. Government leaders and community activists have offered many ideas, for example: more effective policing, reforming the criminal justice system, stemming the flood of illegal guns, dismantling gangs, investment in historically disadvantaged neighborhoods, strengthening education and shoring up family life. I cannot claim special expertise in all these matters. But as a pastor, I can point to the underlying spiritual crisis that this violent and unstable situation has provoked.

When violence prompts grief, fear, and a loss of hope, as it always does, people feel alienated from one another. On one level, the fractures appear to be along the lines of race, ethnicity, economic class, and political affiliation. But it runs much deeper than that. We seem unable or unwilling to comprehend that we are inextricably connected with each other. Yet we truly are fratelli tutti, as Pope Francis put it — all brothers and sisters to each other. If we lose that sense of interconnectedness, we also lose our sense of compassion, empathy and responsibility for each other. And that counts as an incalculable spiritual loss, with profound consequences for how we live together as neighbors, as members of the same human family. In this light, I recall the prophetic words of Dr. Martin Luther King in 1964: “We must learn to live together as brothers [and sisters] or perish together as fools.” (St. Louis, March 22, 1964)

The challenge, especially for believers, rests at the very center of the Church’s identity. At the beginning of the Second Vatican Council’s Constitution on the Church, we see powerful and defining words: the Church is in the manner of a sacrament, that is, an effective sign of the unity of all humanity in God. If we, the people of God, are to remain faithful to our identity and our calling, we must respond to the challenge to human solidarity that violence has provoked. At the same time, we can legitimately ask ourselves: What can we do? What difference can we make? How can we bridge the divides that separate us?

Faith does not give us ready-made solutions to complex problems. Faith does give us hope that with God's help we can move forward, and that we ought to move forward as best as we can. With that in mind, I want to propose to Catholics and to all people of good will five steps that we can take:

1. Ask questions: Explore our experience and seek understanding, but in asking questions, also be prepared to authentically listen, even when what we are hearing proves painful.
2. Dialogue: Seek honest exchanges with people of different backgrounds. No one person or group has all the answers, and when we speak with and listen to those who have experiences and expertise that differs from our own, we begin to move toward understanding. We cultivate empathy.
3. Pray: Ask for enlightenment, place struggling people in God's hands, and imagine Jesus walking with us, because he is.
4. Follow the prompts: If we truly open ourselves to God and to each other, and if we remain attentive, we will begin to identify where God is leading us. This is discernment.
5. Stay connected: The great temptation during a time of crisis is to retreat to what we consider a safe space. In fact, what we most need is to go out of our comfort zones and accompany one another, even when that calls for effort and even some risk.

For people of faith, no matter the severity of the crisis, the last word is trust in God. The stirring words of Psalm 91 have consoled me and strengthened my resolve these days:

He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High and abides in the shade of the Almighty says to the Lord: "My refuge, my stronghold, my God in whom I trust."

*It is he who will free you from the snare
of the fowler who seeks to destroy you;
he will conceal you with his pinions and under his wings you will find refuge.*

*You will not fear the terror of the night
nor the arrow that flies by day, nor the plague that prowls in the darkness
nor the scourge that lays waste at noon.*

*A thousand may fall at your side,
ten thousand fall at your right,
you, it will never approach;
his faithfulness is buckler and shield.*

And finally, in the words of Pope Paul VI: "If you want peace, work for justice." God bless you and your loved ones and keep you safe.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Archbishop of Chicago

WHO IS CALLED TO BE A CATECHIST?

Being a catechist is indeed a sacred vocation. The qualities of a good catechist include faith that manifests itself in their daily life, a love for the Church, missionary fervor and a sincere love for their brothers and sisters. Our Baptismal commitment strengthens these qualities in us. Spend some time reflecting on whether you are called.

A testimonial from one of our dedicated Catechists:

I love being a catechist for Two Holy Martyrs Parish. It is such a meaningful experience. I am able to grow in my faith and help the younger generation grow in theirs as well. It is a peaceful time to pray with the kids and learn more about the Catholic Church every single week. I am very thankful for all my years being a catechist and I can't wait to teach second grade again in the fall!

“And behold, I [Jesus] am with you always, until the end of the age.” (Matthew 28:20)

The Church’s opening prayer for this Sunday is simple and direct: “Show favor, O Lord, to your servants and mercifully increase the gifts of your grace, that, made fervent in hope, faith and charity, they may be ever watchful in keeping your commands. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, God, for ever and ever.” (Roman Missal, 3rd ed.) Again, as in previous weeks, the content regards our ordinary living with God, our ongoing discipleship. Rhetorically speaking, when would we ever not need the Lord’s “favor” or the increased “gifts” of His “grace”? When should we not practice “hope, faith and charity” or keep God’s “commands”? Easily, we could think to ourselves, “Of course God’s favor and grace are important. Sure, I should be hopeful, faithful and charitable, but what is new about these realities?” Understandably, how the Church prays this Sunday and the divine gifts, which she asks of God, are not new or spectacular; however, their dynamic character, what these invisible, supernatural realities can do for us, can be new. God’s gifts remain the same while our response to them can be transformative.

From the Gospel Reading, selected from St. Mark’s Gospel, the Apostles return to our Lord after a time of teaching in His name, curing the sick and exorcising people of demons. (cf. Mark 6:13) By an earthly measure, these feats are impressive and could have led the Apostles to a type of plateauing in their response to Jesus, simply being skillful functionaries. This Sunday, as the Gospel from St. Mark continues, Jesus invites the Apostles go away with Him “to a deserted place” and rest. (Mark 6:31, 32) After living according to the command to love their neighbor, the Twelve return to the presence of Jesus that their love for Him may be deepened. Hope, faith and charity are active in both settings, the early pastoral ministry among their fellow Jews and in close fraternity with our Lord.

Continuing to hear in the Second Reading from St. Paul’s Letter to the Ephesians, he summarizes, “He came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near, for through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father.” (Ephesians 2:17-18) St. Paul’s distinction of “you who were far off” from “those who were near,” could mean physical distance but seems instead to refer those who have followed Jesus and become more conformed to Him, those who are new to discipleship and perhaps wavering versus those who have persevered in the faith and been blessed with a more mature interior life and relation with the Holy Trinity. For both groups, though, “you who were far off” as well as “those who were near,” our Lord’s preaching and offer of peace is consistent. By the practice of hope, faith and charity, a person advances from being far off to nearing the Lord.

Do you ever experience a type of plateauing in your spiritual life or feeling as though you are only going through the motions of the faith, whether during the Mass, your personal prayer or life as a Catholic? If so, how have you responded in the past to persevere with the Holy Spirit toward the Father and the Son? Of faith, hope and charity, the three spiritual virtues, which one seems to be the most fruitful for you in the present? Have you thanked God for this fruit?

Sowing Seeds in Our Garden

This space is a new addition to the Two Holy Martyrs Parish bulletin. We want this section to be a place where the pastor and staff can think out loud as we consider the ever-present needs of our people and our parish facilities.

You are encouraged to check this spot every week and witness "Thought Seeds" being planted into our figurative parish garden. We realize some ideas will take hold and blossom while other ideas will fall flat. We can't really know which will happen unless we take the risk of putting ideas out there and seeing how things go.

We hope you see something that you think is a good idea and might want to personally get involved – either in time, treasure or talent. There will be some things you have no interest in. However, if you do see something that catches your interest, bring it to prayer, and see how the Holy Spirit might be working in you to make a seed bear good fruit for the greater glory of God, or for our parish.

School Tuition Ambassadors

Want to sponsor a needy student's school tuition?

One of the great challenges in Catholic education today is families who want to attend a Catholic school but struggle to fit the annual tuition into their budget. Some families need help. We want to find parishioners who consider this a worthy cause and have the means to serve as a tuition ambassador.

Our parish school – St. Symphorosa – anticipates a Fall 2021 enrollment of 230+ students. This is encouraging. However, we know some students need financial assistance. We can't simply waive tuition for every needy family. Teacher salaries/benefits cost money, and we have to pay our utility bills. Every dollar matters for us. We can't simply keep raising taxes the way our government is allowed.

Ideally, we'd ask the School Tuition Ambassador to make a one-year commitment to pay one student's tuition. The bottom line is that we need folks who support the importance of a Catholic school education, where both mind and heart are formed.

Contact our parish office or the school office if you are interested in financially supporting our school families who need help.

Say Good-bye to Clogged Gutters!

$99 Down
$99 Per Month
$99 Installation

This promotion assumes an estimated job cost of $783. The advertised payment of $99 a month is an estimate only, and assumes that third-party financing is available for new customers at an estimated 3.99% annual percentage rate for 12 months. Promotion available to qualified buyers on approved credit with $99 down payment. Not all buyers will qualify. Higher annual percentage rates apply for buyers with lower credit ratings. LeafGuard is neither a broker nor a lender. Financing is provided by third-party lenders affiliated with LeafGuard, under terms and conditions arranged directly between the customer and such lender, all of which are subject to credit requirements and satisfactory completion of finance documents. Any finance terms advertised are estimates only. LeafGuard does not assist with, counsel or negotiate financing, other than providing customers an introduction to lenders interested in financing its customers. Expiration 8/31/2021

Receive a $25 Amazon gift card with FREE in-home estimate

All participants who attend an estimated 60-90 minute in-home product consultation will receive a $25 gift card. Retail value is $25. Offer sponsored by LeafGuard Holdings Inc. Limit one per household. Company programs, sale, and install services offer protection. This offer is valid for homeowners over 18 years of age. Must attend and complete presentation together. Participants must have a photo ID, be able to understand English, and be legally able to enter into a contract. The following persons are not eligible for this offer: employees of Company or affiliated companies or entities, former immediate family members, previous participants in a Company in-home consultation within the past 12 months and all current and former Company customers. Gift may not be extended, transferred, or substituted except that Company may substitute a gift of equal or greater value if it deems it necessary. Gift card will be mailed to the participant via first class United States Mail or e-mailed within 30 days of receipt of the promotion form. Not valid in conjunction with any other promotion or discount of any kind. Offer not sponsored or promoted by Amazon and is subject to change without notice prior to expiration. Expiration 8/31/2021
